"We're #1," cheer the energetic bleacher crowd at the fall pep rally.

Seniors Deanne Cronin and David Swanson display Sachem enthusiasm in the class of 1985.

Being a step above the rest means being a Sachem. Each individual silhouette is on a step from which we are encouraged to climb. Our school excels academically, socially, and in competitive sports. We as individuals have the opportunity to participate in all of these.

Student life provides us with such options as joining one of the many media clubs; an active radio station, an award winning newspaper or an unparalleled yearbook. Semi-annual theatrical productions provide additional student life along with cheering on favorite sports, attending school sponsored semi's and proms or just partying the weekend away.

We, the class of 1985, have experienced the true meaning of the word exceptional. In our last four years we have excelled academically and competitively. We raised the number of national merit scholars, SAT score averages, and various state and national sport champions. The class of 1985 is surely a step above the rest!

Making the grade has been one of the most important aspects of 1985. Academic superiority prevails throughout the disciplines and the student body. Individual scholars are in abundance. Even our own handful of geniuses are accommodated by our high academic standings. National Honor Societies and National Merit Scholars numbered far above previous years. The battles of class rank and college acceptances became harsher and more competitive. Honor roll lists grew from few to many names. Academic excellence was evident throughout 1985.

Underclassmen, the bulk and character of Winchester High, illustrate a yearly development, mentally as well as physically. The Freshmen arrived as an innocent addition to our school. Sophmores grew in knowledge and gained experience through their transition from ninth to tenth grade. The Juniors, being an established fixture of our school, continue from day to day, waiting for the ultimate step of becoming a Senior.

Even after four years of Latin, these students still have a hard time determining which “endium” is “upae”.

One woman in the foreground is wearing a sweatshirt with "MINNEAPOLIS" on it. The scene is outdoors, with a building visible in the background.

A classic example of Sachem pride. These hats, originally intended to support the band's trip to Georgia's Peach Bowl, are now a recognized symbol of our Sachem spirit. (Photos by Burlington Studio)

Seniors, Richard Anderson, John McGeehan, Ken Gill, and Bruce Schwartzman, take a break to enjoy the "new" downtown, after a hard working day at school.

Winning yet another game, Sachem fullback, Tony Vozzella, is seen running away with the ball, contributing to the 41-0 win over Belmont.

Another year dedicated to proving the supremacy of the competitive Sachem. Our sports teams bring new meaning to the word competition. Not only do we compete for this year's titles, but we are constantly striving to surpass previous accomplishments. We have brought the medals of the past to become an expectation of the future.

Expectations of the future, became a reality as Winchester's Center underwent a structural facelift. A new respect for our hometown was established as outsiders observed our major renovation. Winchester High played a part in the renovation as well. The courtyard was relandscaped and actual grass and trees were planted . . . we truly are a step above the rest.

Student Life

The Sachem experience extends above and beyond. Our lives encompass far more than academic responsibilities.

Numerous extra-curricular activities fill the void of our weekly afternoons. Whether running to drivers-ed class, a German Club meeting, a basketball game or preparing for a Student Union meeting we are expressing our individuality. Through participation in the many activities that WHS offers, we bring ourselves and our school, A Step Above the Rest.

Band member Mary Krussell trumpets her enthusiasm for Student Life.

ALOHA W.H.S.!

Halloween was still a month away, but the word shouted by half of Winchester High School at the Hawaiian Luau on Sept. 22 was "Ghostbusters." The dance was sponsored by the Student Union and the Youth Center, and a special D.J. was hired for the occasion, Dr. Jeremy Savage from WHTT. That was not the only thing that made the dance special; the kids did too. The minute the dance contest was announced, the mass of flower-patterned people came into a circle to watch the entertainment. One would be amazed at how many breakdancers there are at WHS! Some new talent was definitely discovered that evening.

The enthusiasm at the dance was incredible. People really let loose and danced the night away (they must have been pretty thirsty — the drinks sold out in 45 minutes!). People also got pretty creative with their costumes — there were tacky flower patterns and grass skirts, lawn chairs, and sunglasses. The Hawaiian spirit was evident not only in the costumes but the scenery: potted palms, pineapples, and bright paper flowers.

Jeremy told us that we were a little wild, but that he'd had an awesome time and would love to come back.

Jamaica No Problem? Hawaiian Luau NO problem. Scott Kessell, Al Falcione, Eric Krussell, and Glen Richmond hang loose.

Lights, Camera, Action!

The communications wave hit Winchester High! Students interested in the field of communications, can get a head start at our high school! By joining any one of our media clubs, such as the radio station, newspaper staff, or photography club, students are able to enhance their communication abilities. Being a member means learning not only the field itself, with actual hands on training, but also the experience of organizing and working with others to produce the final product. The output of these clubs is not directed solely towards our student body. For example, the photography club sends their pictures to the school paper, yearbook, and to local newspapers. Our school newspaper, The Red & Black, is often seen for sale in local stores and articles in it regularly include features on town and community affairs. WHSR, Winchester High School's Radio, can be heard all over town, as people "crank up" the popular station. The opportunity to learn something new and challenging, is what makes these clubs in a class by themselves.

Playing Alive in '85

While "Leave it to Beaver" keeps the band in step, this year's half-time shows are observed by such honored guests as James Bond, Magnum P.I., and Michael Jackson Welcomed and organized by Ms. Miller and the drum majors, such up-to-date hits are the key to a successful season. "D.C. in '83" was the beginning of a competitive tradition. These expectations continue with the band's acceptance to the Peach Bowl to be held in Atlanta, Georgia the last week in the '84 year.

What is seen everytime a crowd of spirited Sachems gather? Sachem painter's caps!! Not only do these colorful additions brighten our spirits, but they are a vital factor in the fund raising efforts to send our band to Georgia. Supporting these efforts, the band is holding a student-run auction.

Helping Ms. Miller in the planning of these activities are the drum majors Matt Kennedy, Tim McDougall, Margaret Matheson, and Jennifer Crockett. These leaders bring the individual members together, forming a vivacious musical team. Every member is important. "It's a good chance to be with your friends and work together. At the same time you have fun!" remarks Ginny Askew.

Although Ginny relates the better points of belonging to the unseen dedications each member undertakes. This time and energy does not go unnoticed, we, those who enjoy their weekly performances have become their greatest fans. Summing up the feeling of being a performer, Suzanne Perlitsh exclaims, "It is a great feeling to increase the school spirit when performing on the half-time field."

Business Before Pleasure

Many of the students at Winchester High are also part-time workers. Some work for the responsibility and the challenge, while others work to finance their economic needs. Although the hours are long and tiring, most students find satisfaction in having a job. Pilar Von Lazar works "for the money and because it teaches me to be responsible." With college just around the corner, students' jobs become more essential than ever. Some students choose to save a portion of their salary for their education, but the majority of the "moon-lighters" work merely for pocket money. As the weekend comes to an end, so does the supply of cash earned in the previous week. Having a job in high school may be difficult to manage, but the advantages are many.

BEWITCHED!

Bright lights, orange and black decorations, and a lot of wacky costumes were the ingredients of this year's Student Union Halloween Dance. Although the D.J. went to the wrong school, was an hour and a half late, and everyone got an overdose of breakdancing music, the kids had a great time. About five hundred people from all four classes came to the Junior High gym the night of October 27th to listen to the music and dance the night away (at least until 11:30). People were barely recognizable as witches, gools, a bunch of grapes, and even Michael Jackson trumped into the gym. The lights flashed, the music played, and everyone had a great time. The dance was a huge success for the Student Union, and psyched everyone for the dances to come.

The motley crew: Mark Shaw, Tommy Karis, Glenn Dorsom, Billy Newbourn, and the masked man.

Greeting students at the door were Mickey Mouse, Minnie Mouse portrayed by Nelleke Spanjaard, bunny Ginny Askew, and St. Paulis Girl Cory Barger.

PEP AND PRIDE OF W.H.S.

Who are those crazy people jumping around in little skirts on chilly afternoons? They're none other than the WHS Tumblettes and Cheerleaders. Participation in both of these organizations as in other sports, requires a great amount of time and dedication.

This year's Tumblette squad proved to be as energetic as ever. The many hours spent at afternoon practices and on Saturday mornings enabled the Tumblettes to please the crowds at every half-time performance. We must not, however, forget to mention the tireless efforts of Coach Pricilla Miller. She supported the squad and helped to bring them to the perfection that was displayed in Atlanta, Georgia at the 1984 Peach Bowl Festivities.

The WHS Cheerleaders have constantly provided "pep and pride" to the Sachem teams. Their intricate cheers and dance routines never ceased to amaze the crowds. With the support and talent of Miss Sullivan and their own time and dedication, the Fall Cheerleaders were able to bring their act to the Peach Bowl in Atlanta.

Tumblette tri-captains Suzanne Perlitsh, Michelle Seviginy and Maura Cullen "split" the task of leading the WHS Tumblettes.

Showing their talent, the WHS Cheerleaders entertain the crowd at a Pep Rally.

FOOLS! FOOLS! FOOLS!

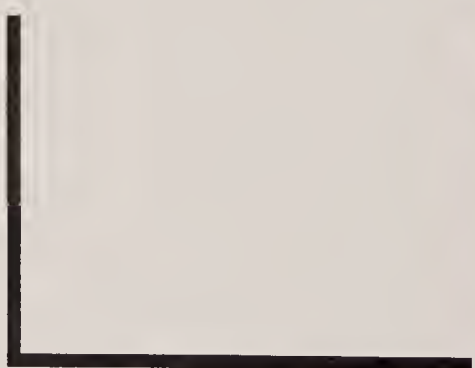

Curtain & Cue treated its audience to another outstanding performance with its fall production of the comedy 'Fools'. On Nov. 29 and 30, and Dec. 1, the Winchester High stage was transformed into the Russian village of Kulyenchikov, a village cursed with idiocy. Leon Tolchinsky arrives in the village to break the curse, and his arrival brings with it hilarious results. The character of Leon was played by Ben Keller, with supporting roles played by Margaret Hitchcock, Denise Preston, Chris Duffy, Kristen Kelley, and others.

Often, during stage productions such as 'Fools', an important part of the crew is overlooked; the stage crew. Without the stage crew, which was under the leadership of Pat Berkeley, the show would not have gone on.

Curtain & Cue offers students a chance to perform, to learn about dramatics, and to take part in the various aspects of play production.

"Judge" Chris Duffy and "Dr." Andy Laats rehearse yet another corny joke from "Fools".

Ron Purdy and Will Hunter help to construct the complex set of "Fools".

During an early practice of "Fools" Kristen Kelley and Denise Preston pray that the curse of Kulyenchikov will be lifted.

Brian Milauskas and Erin Boland (business manager) make plans for the production of "Fools".

"Time ta make da donuts," says Chris Alexander.

Chris Duffy joins Margaret Hitchcock and Keller in 'foolish' matrimony.

ON THE RIGHT KEY

The WHS Music Department is one of the best in the state, producing some fantastic musical talent. For the first time our Orchestra combined with the Junior High Orchestra — thus producing a large group with an even greater amount of talent. Again the Band made another great trek, this time to Atlanta GA to participate in the 1984 Peach Bowl Festivities. Once again, the Jazz Band (the "Cream of the crop" in the Music Department), played select Jazz pieces for us at the Winter and Spring Concerts.

Also successful was the WHS Orchestra which participated in many public performances such as a performance at the Hyatt Regency, and at the Jr. High School. Both musical groups have many extremely talented musicians who will bring their talents with them wherever they go after High School.

Another talented musical group at WHS is the Concert Choir which must perform at engagements outside of High School and on their own time. Clearly, there is an abundance of musical talent at Winchester High School. This talent is shown through the accomplishments of the W.H.S. Marching Band, Orchestra, and Concert Choir.

SHORT BUT SWEET

This year's Soccer Ball started a new tradition which we hope won't be continued. The semi-formal dance was scheduled to be held at the Burlington Marriot on November 24th, but then again, it was scheduled to last from 7:30 to 12:30.

The D.J.'s music kept everyone dancing and having a great time, until . . . ten-o'clock came around. The crowd became suspiciously rowdy, and when searched, more than just shoes and bowties were found beneath the tables. Surprising the crowd, the dance ended immediately and every one was escorted out. This was certainly a night which no one will forget. Although the 'Ball' ended early, you can be sure that the fun did not.

Captains, Paul Ferrulo and Rick Suvak get into the party spirit with friends Carol Reinhart, Debbie Cahill, Maura Kennedy, and Mike Rice.

Jen Ulwick, David Koffman, and Kat Lee form a love triangle.

In 1984, there were two pep rallies, to boost WHS spirit. The first rally was the traditional rally starting the Fall '84 sports season. Everyone clapped for the Football team, screamed for Girls' Soccer, marveled at the cutesy cheerleaders, and as usual, we were respectfully silent for the Golf team. However, there was a new twist to the pep rally which preceded the Thanksgiving Day game. Red balloons were on sale for 50¢, and could be purchased as a gift for a friend. The sale of these balloons served many purposes; the abundance of the balloons was a clear demonstration of Sachem Spirit, the proceeds of the sale went to the Student Union, and the balloons themselves were a unique way to demonstrate friendships. One might even say that the munchkin voices (resulting from several students inhaling helium) were beneficial for their entertainment value!

Getting into the Sachem Spirit, these freshman really enjoy the pep rally.

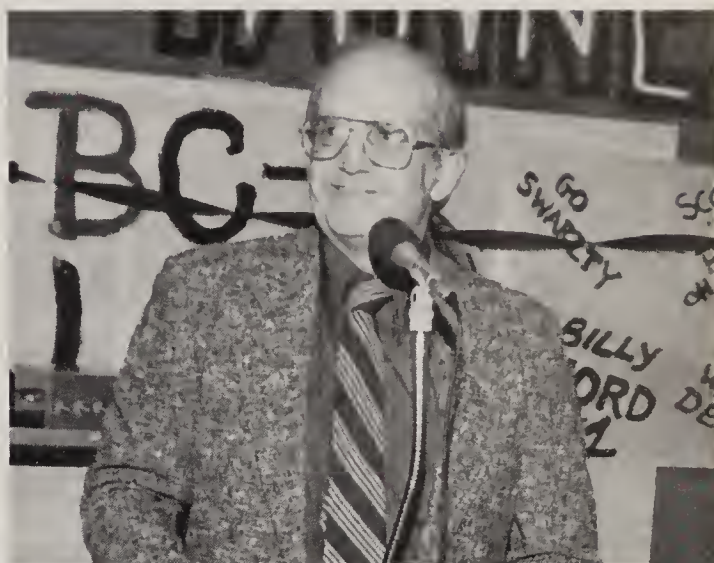

Janice Coakley and Kathleen McGillicuddy, not wanting to get carried away by their balloons, cling tightly to their symbols of Sachem Spirit.

"The Wave" was a special attraction at the Thanksgiving pep rally. Seen making waves are Steve Bonnell, Tim Donaghey, Tony Menounos, Marc DiCara, John Coliano, and Paul Ferullo.

Mr. Larocco gets "pepped up" at the pep rally.

WHS BAND IS PEACH BOWL BOUND

On the chilly morning of December 28, 1984 approximately 200 WHS Band Members and chaperones embarked from Boston's Logan airport — Peach Bowl Bound. The 75° Atlanta proved to be an exciting treat. The endless hours of practice and the months of fundraising finally paid off with this 'chance of a lifetime' — to participate in the Peach Bowl Festivities.

Upon landing (in the 2nd largest airport in the world) no time was wasted, rather than settling down in the classy Atlanta Sheraton, a practice was held in The Georgia Tech Stadium. The band competed with 19 other bands from all over the country, participating in a field and parade competition. The Band did superbly winning 3rd place in the field and 2nd in the parade competitions. On the less pressured side, the band was privileged to participate in the Peach Bowl pregame and ½ time shows.

The trip was not only meant for competing; the band members toured the city, visited Stone Mountain and experienced The Varsity — the largest fast food place in the world.

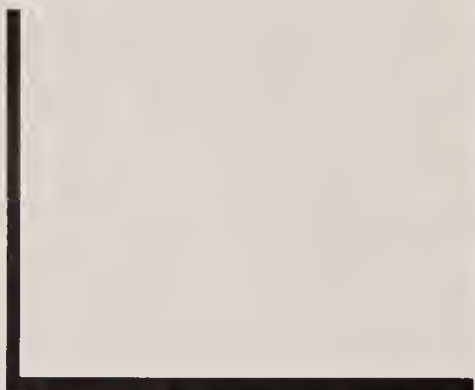

The band nerds (as they call themselves) were not at all phased by the pressures put upon them and burned off their anxiety dancing to the music from Scott Kessel's sound system, and by getting baked in the sunshine. Unfortunately 3 unsuspecting band members happened to get mugged — (however the mishap didn't scare any party-animal band members into putting away their mugs).

The 4 days passed quickly, the band finally watched Purdue and Virginia battle at the Peach Bowl game. It was New Years Eve and the band members arrived at Logan Airport with Peach Bowl memories stored away in their minds. The WHS band members and all those involved, deserve thanks for once again bringing pride to our town, and making WHS a step above the rest.

The WHS Band won third place in the field competition and is seen here in their "Sweet Georgia Brown" formation.

Is that grace which the WHS Tumblettes show as they practice a pyramid?

Those drummer boys — Mike Blasi, Scott Kessel and Gary Rogers — sure are cool?!

Pricilla Miller is nothing but proud of the Band's second place winning in the parade competition.

The two major people who made this trip possible — Pricilla Miller and Mr. Hackett pose in front of the U-Haul van which brought all of the instruments etc. from Boston to Atlanta.

That prize-winning 'Sound of Music' is personified by the Brass section.

Seniors

After three trying years we finally reached our destination; the senior class of 1985. We are no longer dreaming of the future, we are remembering the past. Suddenly all eyes turned toward us and await our next step. The influence of the cliques faded as our class joined together for our final year. We came closer to leaving our security blankets behind as the future neared. Leaving Winchester High became more realistic than ever before. Our memories of WHS will always remain in our hearts as we go our separate ways to further our lives.

Ever have one of THOSE days?

Red . . . what a beautiful shade — and everyone of us (no matter how much we dare not admit it), has had the "pleasure" of wearing it sometime during our high school years.

The constant fear of falling in the halls on the stairs, with books flying everywhere, (right in front of the person you've had a crush on for weeks), or dropping your lunch tray right in the middle of the cafeteria, or walking around school all day with your fly down — oops, or giving your most beautiful smile to your object of infatuation with a mouth full of foreign matter coating your teeth. Even having your stomach growl in the middle of an English test, or sneezing and not having a kleenex available. Yes, these things do happen, even to the best of us, and may be characterized under High School's most embarrassing moments.

Have you ever written a juicy note about someone in general, and having it intercepted by the wrong person! Yes, we've all stuck our feet in our mouths at one time or another (mmm, isn't that soul such a delicacy sometimes).

Don't worry, we've all experienced embarrassment but just remember, though those moments may still be painful to think about now, in time, you'll be able to laugh at them (joining all the others who had their fun laughing at you.)

Wasn't that a smooth move?", asks Lauren Pawlak.

Lip-synching, along with break-dancing, was one of the latest fads this past year at Winchester High School. On Dec. 15, 1984, the senior class sponsored a lip-synching contest, which, with a profit of 700 dollars, proved to be an overwhelming success.

Because it was the first time that anything of this sort was to be attempted at the high school, there were doubts as to how successful the evening would be. However, response on the part of both the performers and the audience was incredibly positive.

There was a wide variety of acts. Scott Donaghey and some of his friends portrayed Bruce Springsteen and the E Street Band with astonishing likeness, and thus took first prize in the contest. Pam Getson, with a little fancy footwork, imitated Prince to win second prize. Pat Berkely and company placed third as Devo. Surely, the night would not have been complete without Patrick Badgers' sexy imitation of David Lee Roth, of the group Van Halen.

The Dating Game

"He's got cooties, he's got cooties!" Yes, we've noticed the opposite sex — as early as kindergarten. "Who are ya goin' to the Enka with?" was the spring talk of every sixth grader. Remember when Marsha Brady went on her first date looking forward, we all couldn't wait to grow up. "Who are you going to the dance with?" was the question of the week with every Junior High School student, where the McCall bleachers were the place to be. But the big time dating scene doesn't start until we enter High School, right? Well, sort of. Now, "Who's he or she going out with — he's gorgeous and gosh is she good-looking" is the hallway talk at WHS as we trudge through the hall and get a wiff of Polo. Since there isn't much to do on weekends in this rockin' town of Winchester, we all live for the day we get our licenses. Then we resort to the Greg Brady technique of asking Dad for the car keys. Your best bet is to hit Woburn Cinema or a party; the most popular alternative is to go to the house of someone who is "having kids over."

Well, at least High school relationships last longer (hopefully), and puppy love permeates the hallways as we walk to French class. And then there's that "magical" prom night, though for most of us it's overrated. Having a High School sweetheart is always nice, but for those of us who don't, there's plenty of time to hit college.

SENIORITIS HITS WHS

"If you've got it, flout it . . ." — Maurice Godfrey.

Ralph Laurentano spreads the disease to his buddy Rob Santos.

What kind of drugs can cure this disease? Many have tried to find a remedy, but there doesn't seem to be one available. To state it plainly, Senioritis is one of the few diseases which can be fun to contract. This 'virus' victimizes high school seniors, and usually is found directly after the close of the second marking quarter. At this time, nothing else can be done to effect college applications or anything else for that matter.

The symptoms of this mind-crippling disease are: wild urges for mad partying (especially at 9:10) becoming oblivious to the existence of classes — or homework, the sudden loss of intelligence or braincells, and a plain-old "I don't care anymore" attitude, (which can feel extremely satisfying).

Let's face it, we're young and this is one of the few times we can get away with being wild and free. So if you feel you have contracted any of the above symptoms, just take two aspirins, and have your mother call you in.

Excuses, Excuses!

Do you remember when you just couldn't get yourself psyched up to go to gym? Sometimes it was because you didn't have any gym clothes, or you had a huge test to study for. Maybe you were starving and you had to get some breakfast, or pictures were being taken and there was no way you were going to run the mile and get all sweaty. (Or maybe you were legitimately sick — which is highly unlikely). Now how were you going to get out of it? Your first idea was to have your mother call you in — but she either said NO, or she wasn't home; now what? The last resort was to get a nurses excuse. How does one go about doing that? There are various ways to getting the nurse to write you a 'gym pass'. You could put on an academy award winning act of a person with a terrible stomach ache, or perhaps you could convince the nurse that you have an ankle which is perpetually twisted, (yeah, sure). Cramps, bad knees, and a stiff neck are all sure-fire grievances. There are a million things which could go wrong with your body so you were creative. What would we do without those good old nurses — they really were lifesavers.

"Well I'm hot blooded, check it and see . . ." exclaims MaryAlice Curran as she gets out of her Project Adventure class.

"But Mrs. Sullivan, this must be broken! I know I have high blood pressure, therefore I cannot possibly do aerobics," says Carrie Macdonald.

WEEKENDS WERE MADE FOR . . .

Do it again! cheer N. Asaro, A. Menounos, S. Falzano, and J. O'Neil.

T. Gurry, C. Flately, L. Doherty, and K. Kirkpatrick, show their wild spirit at a football game.

L. Carpintari, L. Puffer, and D. Molloy prepare to go to the Sr. Discussion Dance.

It's seventh period, on Friday, and it's 2:00. The next three minutes seem to last an eternity, and all eyes are rivoted to the minute hand of the clock, which is taking its own sweet time getting to the 12. Finally, the bell rings and students burst out classrooms like the suds from a shaken up can of Coke. The weekend has at last arrived!

Weekends, especially in Winchester, which is sometimes fondly referred to as "Mayberry", can sometimes be overrated. It's true that there is no school for two days, and that alone is reason to celebrate, but celebrate where? At a limited number of places; White Hen, the Lakes, or (provided someone's parents have gone away for the weekend), a private party. Private parties, however, seem to be as common as people smoking normal cigarettes by the artroom doors. The newly formed Recreation Department is always good for something to do — that is, if you're ten years old! The crafty students of Winchester High always manage to scrape up something to do, and weekends will always remain the best part of the week.

Partying at a birthday bash

Out on the town during a weekend getaway in N.Y.C.

"Do you remember?
We were once friends
For a very short time
And the happiness we shared
I stored in my mind
I relish the memories
Of the times we once knew
I only wish I knew if
You remember them too ..."

We remember . . . to many of us, Jenny was a friend. Her life has touched the hearts and is imprinted in all of our memories. There was something very special about Jenny. She was 'young, wild and free' and she taught all those who knew her how to enjoy life. Jenny knew how to have fun and when it came to having a good time, there was no stopping her. Jenny had a free spirit, and we will always remember her in that way.

Jenny — you taught all of us how precious life is. Your presence is greatly missed and you will never be forgotten. Thanks for being yourself. For all of this, we love you!

Jenny and her dog Poppy, shared many playful moments.

"Keep smilin'!" was one of Jenny's most practiced mottos.

There is no such thing as too much studying for the gifted Bjorn Poonen.

Beth Nowell displays one of her many trophies for winning races with the National team.

In every class, there are those outstanding students who seem to excel at everything they do. Bjorn Poonen and Beth Nowell, are two such students.

Although Bjorn will be only sixteen when he graduates, he is in the top ten of his class. A versatile student, he belongs to the French National Honor Society, and possesses extraordinary mathematical abilities. Not only has Bjorn been awarded on the local, state, and national levels for his mathematical prowess, he also has been recognized internationally!

Beth Nowell is also an all-around student. Her name is never absent from the honor roll, and she captains the cross-country team, as well. She also has great talent for both cycling and speed-skating. She placed seventh in the cycling nationals, and first in the regionals. She is also an speed-skating Olympic hopeful for 1988.

Both Bjorn and Beth are extraordinary students. They exemplify the spirit of the Class of '85; they are truly a step above the rest.

Going for broke.

We all know about the pressures involved with being a student at the high school — homework, exams, sports, clubs, work. Well, picture yourself coping with these problems plus one more: crutches. These were a common sight at WHS this year and were endeavored by boys and girls, freshman and seniors alike. Many ended up on crutches via sports related injuries. Others, who snarled when asked, "What happened?;", owed their injuries to unfortunate accidents. Whatever the cause, most of the accidents did not leave the students with crutches for long. But you can be sure that as soon as one student loses his elevator key, another will be seen waiting for the elevator and keeping the tradition.

War veteran — Danny O'Connell longingly views the dancing people at the Luau.

'Misery loves company' as Rob Nigro consoles the lamed Mary Pat Furey.

Ted Welch and escort Jon Furey await the luxuries of the WHS elevator.

YOU DON'T SAY!

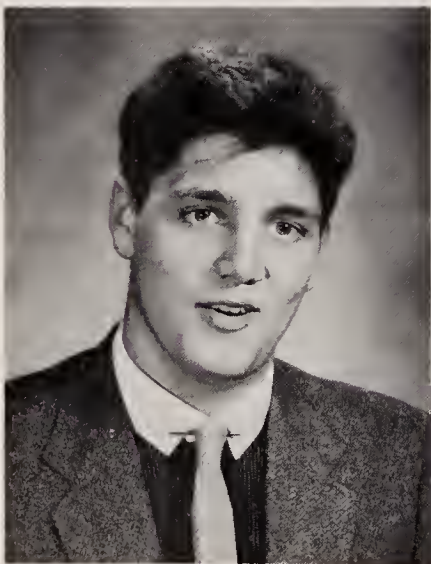

There are two things which inevitably exist in every high school: cliques and gossip. Our school, like every other, certainly has its share of both. There is a clique for almost everyone; the "jock" clique, the "nerds", the "play" people from Curtain and Cue, and the "rats" (need more be said?). Another BASIC clique is the "computer whiz" clique. There is also the formidable "gaudy make-up" clique, or the "orange face" clique. The Cliques at the high school represent almost every interest imaginable, and are undoubtedly a fundamental part of student life.

High School just wouldn't be the same without gossip. Contrary to popular belief, boys gossip just as much as girls do, although while boys gossip mainly about sex, girls gossip about anything and everything, especially other girls. From "Did you see what Jane was wearing today?" to "Did you hear what Jane did last weekend?", girls certainly cover all subjects. No one is left out of female gossip; teachers as well as students are victims. A small piece of gossip grows bigger as it moves along. For instance, a student may see a male math teacher greet a female math teacher. By 7th period, the latest news around the school will be that those two teachers are having an affair! Gossip, for the most part, however, is harmless, and it surely adds spice to what otherwise can be a dreary day.

WHAT A BASH!

"But ocifer, I swear it was a green light, I think, and I'll get screwed if I get another ticket!"

Close encounters of the ? kind — the cops! Unfortunately, even the best of us can be in the wrong place at the wrong time. An 'overwhelming crime rate' did not at all hinder the T.J. Hookers of Winchester; one inch above the speed limit and you were snagged. Their favorite trap was the Lakes — a popular place to apprehend minors with posession of the supposedly untouchable alcohol. The road by the Palmer Tennis Courts is tempting for crusin', but prime WPD bait.

Well, supposedly this was their way of creating cautious drivers. However, they could never convince some of us not to play with matches. Some unlucky WHS students even found themselves face to fender with telephone poles, trees, or other cars. Luckily most of these accidents did not result in any severe injuries, though some may not agree — being grounded for months is not exactly painless.

LEADERS OF THE PACK

We finally made it to the top as "big" seniors, but now that we're here, we struggle to determine what exactly is so great about being a senior? Because there are no more upperclassmen guys to go after, the senior girls start centering their attention on senior guys. Meanwhile, the senior guys "face" the senior girls by dating only underclassmen girls; it's a vicious cycle.

Some of us have known each other since kindergarten. Even though we have our own cliques, like it or not, we are all one big family. We have spent four years passing each other in the halls, writing each other notes, smiling as well as glaring at each other, and taking the good times with the bad. We sadly realize, as June takes us our separate ways, that this is our last year together.

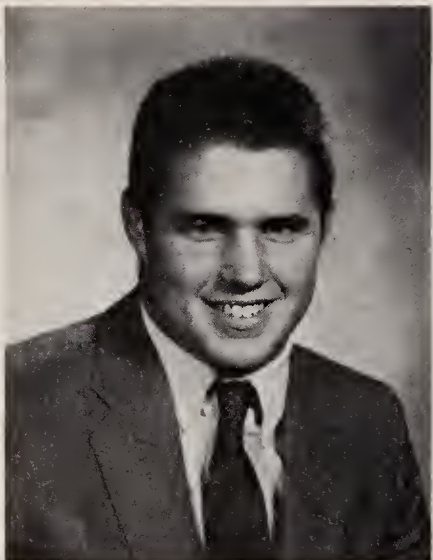

This year's senior class officers were, to say the least, simply awesome! President Jean Benincasa, V.P. Pam Harrington, Secretary Traci Ross, and Treasurer Greg "How's it goin', eh?" Johnson proved to be a great team. Their fundraisers included a record-breaking magazine drive which raised $8000.00, and a Lip-Synching contest, were highly successful. Our ambition was hot, and our spirit could not be controlled. On January 4th, at the K. of C., we partied it up at our Toga/Class night. On May 3rd, another class night was planned, complete with the drummer from the rock group "Boston." Our semi was hosted by Anthony's Pier 4 in Boston on March 1st. But it wasn't just class activities that made this time memorable; it was a combination of private moments with friends and times of mad partying with the whole class. We were finally able to contract that legendary disease — senioritis. Senior year is an unforgettable period in everyone's life, and as we graduate, we wish ourselves good luck

The excellent senior class officers: Greg, Pam, Traci, and Jean.

TOGA!

"Dancin' in the sheets" was the theme of the first annual class night — toga party. This seniors only party, held at the Knights of Columbus Hall at 7:00 PM on January 4, 1985 was a great success for the Senior Class with a profit of 400$. The class rocked to the tunes of Rage featuring Kevin Eckland, Joe Grifoni, Bill Ford and John McCabe for an hour until the Solution took over starring Scott Kessel, Mike Blasi, John Rogers, Tom Cross and Mitch Rodriguez. The "Romans" came decked out in the latest of high fashion togas which ranged from satin to stars + stripes to budwiser, mickey-mouse and even original white, with high fashion accessories from left-over Christmas decorations. Even the chaperones shared the spirit. All in all the evening was extremely memorable and a great success, due to the organization of our super Senior Class Officers.

Displaying their originality, Liz Carpintari, David Grecco, Debbie Molly, Mary Ann Fallon, and Jeff O'Neil ham it up at Senior Class Night.

Tony Menounos gives Liz Carpintari a "lift".

Academics

Top-notch, first rate, cream of the crop . . . these words are synonymous with Winchester High's academic program. The excellence of both the students and the faculty, support our reputation of being an academically rigorous institution. Many of our students have achieved national and international notoriety, and the credentials of our faculty remain unchallenged. Our academic achievements at WHS will be the foundation of many great things to come.

Administering a business as large as Winchester High School is no easy task. A combination of personnel, managerial and fiscal skills are required to keep our school running. Under the leadership of our new and enthusiastic superintendent Charles Mitsakos, many of the old methods are undergoing reconstruction. Such controversial issues of improvement include the study hall release plan, class rank, and the breakfast program. On the student level the Student Advisory Committee works hand in hand with our administration to add a younger voice and opinion to the issues so relevant to our school lives. The essential coordination of this department creates a strong backbone which supports every other aspect of this school.

Student Union gives students an opportunity to become an active voice in the school government. Working hand and hand with the school administration, they provide social, governmental, and communal activities. The organization is broken down into various committees, giving students a sense of individual accomplishment. Under Mary Pat's enthusiastic leadership this year's activities have included theme-oriented dances and innovative new traditions, such as the Thanksgiving Balloon Day Rally. All of the accomplishments of the Student Union could not have been achieved without the supervision of our dedicated advisor Nancy Atkins.

This year's Industrial Arts Department is novice to the position. Last year we lost three long-term teachers who were not only dedicated teachers but also involved individuals. Dedication could not be better exemplified by any other trio. Joseph Aversa had been with the Winchester High Industrial Arts Department since 1947, George Swallow since 1957, and George Robertie since 1955. A "Goodbye to the Good Guys" was held in October of 1984 at the Town Line House in Lynnfield.

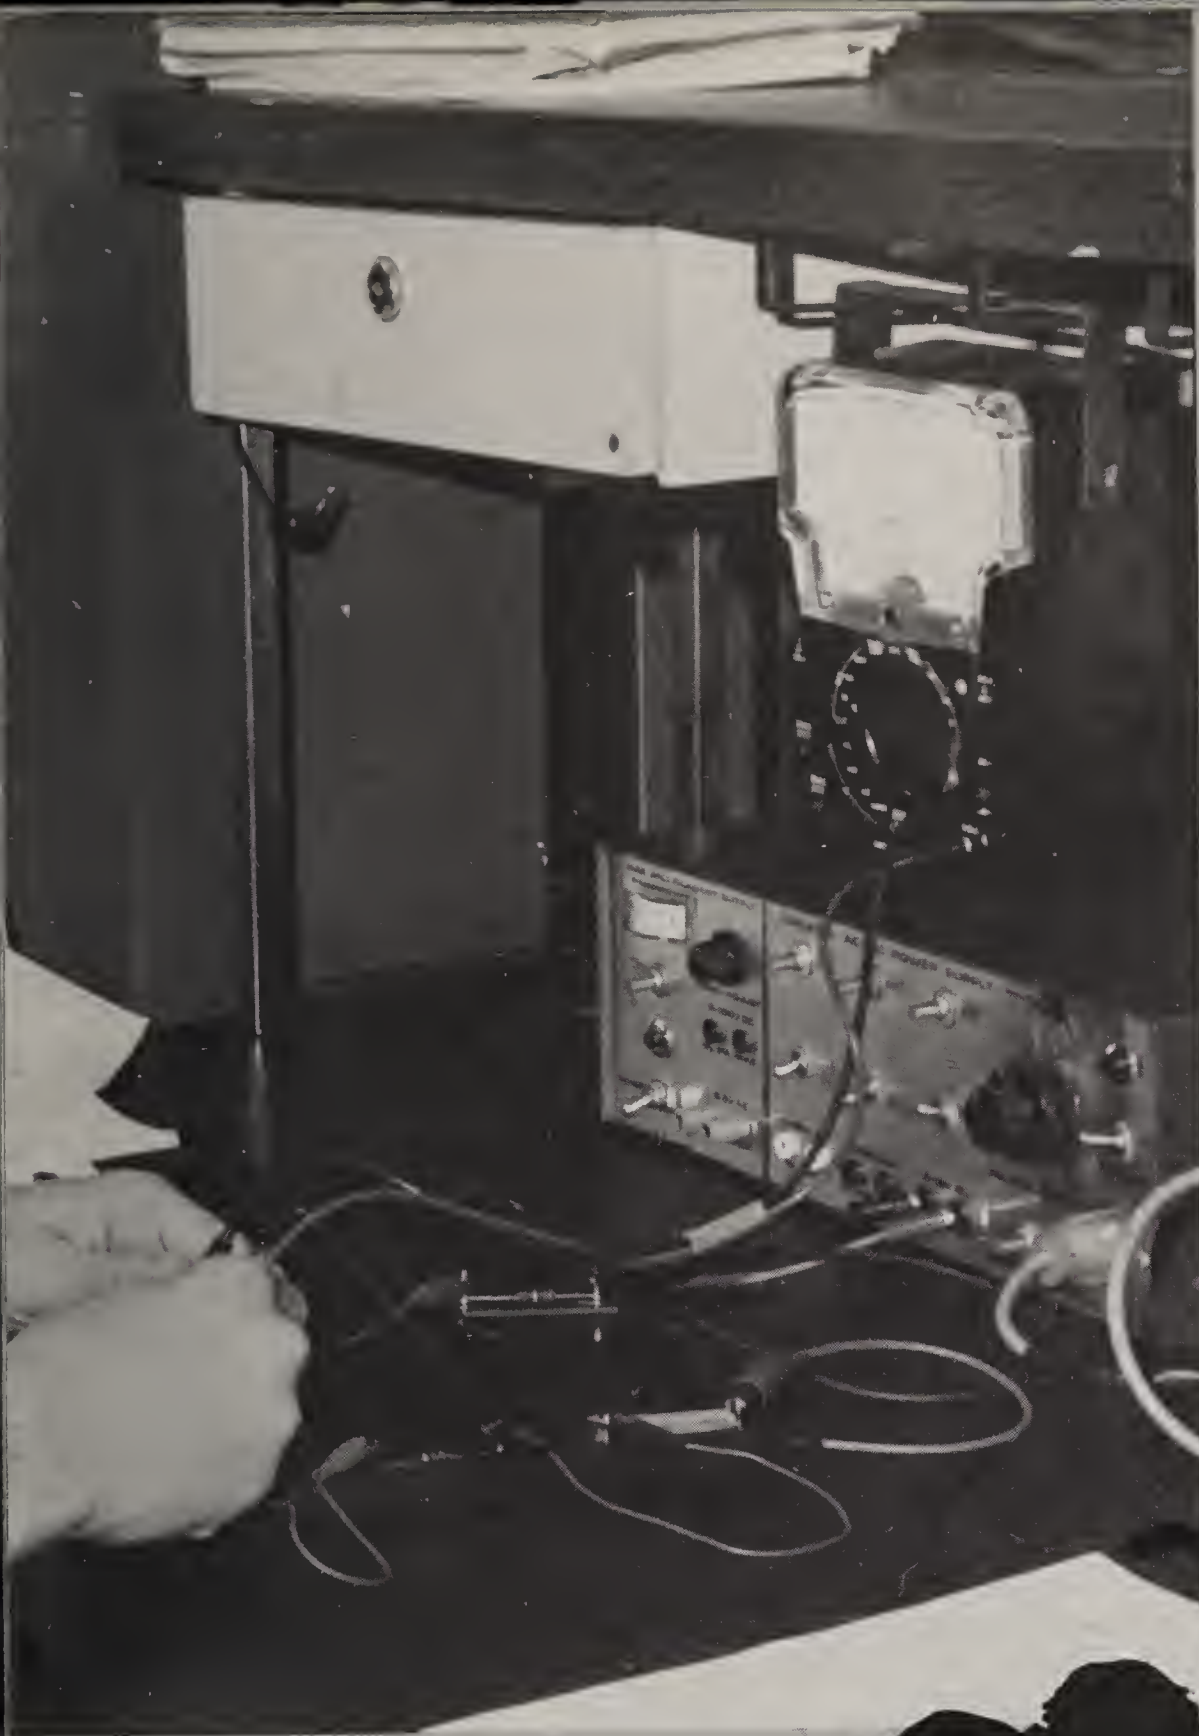

The department was faced with the problem of continuing the pattern established throughout the years of offering a challenging curriculum designed to comply with the abilities of the cross section of the student body involved in the program. David Miller, who had previously taught Wood & Drafting for seven and one half years, returned after working with the C.L.I.P. program for the past seven years. He is now the department head. John Fusco came to teach Electronics classes and Tom Good, Auto Mechanics. Together they "knock on wood" for the ability to keep the department progressing through a transition which reflects the current advances of the Industrial Technology.

What do the Art, Music, and Home Economics departments have in common? Each is an area of creativity which allows students to expand in areas beyond academics. The art program trains aspiring artists to use their abilities, often-times producing award winning creations. The music department, composed of the Concert Band, Jazz Band, Chorus and Orchestra sections, reinforces individual musical talents while adding the experience of working together as a group to collaborate a coordinated sound. Home Economics, which includes such aspects as child development and food & nutrition, teaches the necessary basics of self-survival. As individual departments they are unique but as a whole they are indispensable for those students who depend upon a variety in their school day.

The Working World

The Business Education Department is educating students to keep pace with the new office technology. Around the department you will see word processing systems, memory typewriters, electronic typewriters as well as programs used for automated accounting. Along with clerical skills, accounting, and business related courses, many college-bound students have enhanced their skills by taking typewriting courses for personal and professional use.

The Career-Life Information Program is the only alternative program in Winchester High School. Academic skills are applied to a variety of situations students will face following graduation. A Career Exploration component includes aptitude testing, career exploration, and actual work experience. In addition to the morning program, students may forego the work experience component in order to take skill courses in the afternoon. Created in 1976, the C.L.I.P. Program was originally designed to attract students who were not planning to attend college after graduation. We now find that many of our students are choosing to enter two-year colleges and technical schools.

The yearbook staff would like to express our appreciation to the business department for the use of their typewriters.

P.U. P.E. — is this what you think of first when walking into the locker room, with its distinctive smell. Your eight minutes seem like two minutes and you're always only half-dressed when the lights go out, so you end up walking up to the gym with your shirt on backwards and inside-out. However, when the grumbling and complaining stop, you realize that Gym isn't that bad. You are offered a wide assortment of classes, such as CPR, fencing, archery, self-defence, yoga, or project adventure. The teachers are understanding and helpful; the forty-five-minute class goes by quickly. From the freezing days of fall to the boiling days of summer, someone always needs a pair of socks. These two seasons also herald the dreaded mile (but just think of all the calories you burn off!).

Now, after all of this, do you still think Gym is all sweat and muscles? If you do, remember: it's not Gym that makes you sweat but running to your next class (on the third floor, of course). But you're not going to smell; you're the one who had the deodorant fight!

Which department is foreign to every Winchester High School student? The Foreign Language Department, of course — the area which specializes in a play on words. For those students involved in one (or more) of the five languages offered, these studies not only widen foreign horizons, but build uncommon aspects of our own culture as well.

Our language department provides the unique opportunity to practice verbal skills in the language laboratory. As a student, first interactions with this type of workshop can be unnerving. "Which button did she tell us to press?" We've all felt slightly ridiculous repeating those rapid high-pitched voices to ourselves and when we replay it thinking, is that really me? By practicing, we can only improve and possibly become one of the many award winning students produced by this department.

Another opportunity offered to us through the language department is the active Foreign Exchange Program, through which students directly apply their classroom knowledge to the real foreign language experience. This program gives their study of the language a broader, and more appreciative meaning.

The French Club

Meeting once a month, the French Club organizes and participates in many French-orientated activities with the support of its advisors, Mr. Duhamel and Mrs. Hastings. Its photographed members include Chris O'Donnell, Cyrus Akabarian, Caitlin Mullen, Cathy Keane, Jame Duda, Suzanne Pawlak, Leah Schwab, Bonnie-Jean Casey, Audrey Nacamoli, Abdu Yilmaz, Alex Levin, Chris Flynn, Karen McCall, Jen Mirak, Lauren Pawlak, Melissa Black, Lucy Shawcross, Ellen Goodwin, Candice Ashenden, Alison Berry, Jessica Purdy, Orissa Baker, Kristen Reilly, Cindy Card, Al Falcione, Jen Matrundola, Pam Harrington, Lynn Matsueda, David Bently, Melissa Grigorieff, Nelleke Spanjaard, and Lauren Chabot.

The German Club

The German Club is devised to acquaint its members with the culture and language of the German speaking countries. This year's advisor is Frau Austin. Its photographed members include Joan Matelli, Jennifer Thorn, Shasha Potskaiy, Denise Dewald, Petr Kyn, Nicky Harbor, Derek Rutherford, Nassim Mir-Mozafari, Frau Austin, Peter Pezaris, Chris O'Donnell, and Mike McKnight.

The Italian Club

The Italian Club, in order to plan and execute many large activities, meets once every two weeks. The World Celebration in Boston, a visit to the North End, the Festa Italiano, and the Carnevale are some of the major events in which the Italian Club participates. The advisor to the Italian Club is Mrs. Innes. Its photographed members are John Bella, Mark Signorino, Melissa Letteri, Jennifer Thorne, Suzanne Pawlak, Tanya Wasserman, Melissa Zuccola, Andra Colentio, Orissa Baker, Shannon McDonough, Penny Kapanika, Michelle Salemi, Jean Benincasa, Joe Palumbo, Mrs. Innes, Greg Rebello, Cindy Pasciuto, and John Galuso.

The Latin Club

The Spanish Club

The Spanish Club meets approximately once a month to learn about and discuss the culture and traditions of the Spanish speaking people. The advisor to the Spanish Club is Lourdes Alvarez. Its photographed members include Theresa Roberts, Greg Poulos, Melisa Black, Risa Divincenzo, Leilani D'Agostino, Linda Rossettos, Joan Matelli, Wendy Boerner, Derek Rutherford, Alison Berry, Candice Ashenden, Elizabeth Lee, Sharon Fitzgerald, MaryAnn Fallon, Jose Colero, Heather McCleary, Diane Yamani, Trisha Bracken, Ann Walsh, and Traci Ross.

The Culture Connection

In November the French Club organized a candlelight pot-luck dinner. Members enjoyed a range of French related food from French bread and salad to eclairs.

(Silhouette by Petr Kyn)

Each of the six Foreign languages offered at Winchester High has a Corresponding club. These active organizations not only explore the culture, language, and people further than classroom studies but they also organize activities, including field trips to movies, foreign-themed dinners, and Christmas parties. Each club relies on the dues and fundraising efforts of its members.

This year a new foreign club was added to the list, the International Club. For the participants of these clubs, foreign languages are brought to life with the discoveries of different customs.

Mastering a language does have its rewards. Hannah Riley received an award for her studies of the German language at the Spring Awards Night ceremony of 1984.

This year's new academic expansion, a computerized writing lab course, has been added to our requirements for all sophomores. Robert Southworth revises his assignment on the MacIntosh. (Photo by Wes Schmale)

The Parts of Speech

To be or not to be . . . is that the question? Or is it "What is the topic of your research paper?"? Regardless of which aspect of the english department you have been involved with this year there should be no question that it is the most diversified of any of the departments. Not only do we have a room dedicated exclusively to the required tenth grade writing lab course, furnished with Macintosh computers, but also have such versatile teachers as Jerry Skinder, who not only teaches english but is a critically acclaimed musician as well. This diversity is most exemplified by the wide range of available courses. As a freshman each student has a choice of which level of difficulty he wishes to pursue. Sophomores experience our unique writing lab class, a required but stimulating situation. Juniors and Seniors are offered a variety of english based classes ranging from English Skills of British Literature to Media or Humanities. No question about it, for each aspect of the english language there is a comparable course offered at Winchester High.

Creative Writing Club

The main purpose of the Creative Writing Club is to publish the High School literary magazine, Labyrinth. The club meets once a week after school in the English Open Area to discuss and critique each other's work, under advisor, Ms. Hession. Its photographed members include Chris Duffy, Kevin Cassidy, Mike Merit, Abdu Yilmaz, Neil Cullen, Laura Smith, Scott Sterling, Paula Queen, Ms. Hession, Chris Lyden, Andy Hunter, Kathy Shao, Chrissy Grey, Joe Majahad, Laura Colella, Emra Yilmaz, Michelle Barton, Margaret Lee, Courtney MacMillan, Kathy Keen, and Lauren Murray.

The Games Club

The Games Club is evergrowing with the help of their new Advisor Mr. Zelner. This group meets to practice such strategic games as Killer, Dungeons-&Dragons, Trivial Pursuit and James Bond. Its photographed members include Sarah Regan, Andrew Walton, Hank Askew, Emrehan Pelin, Tim Wood, Maura Nagle, Andre Poonen, Andrew Hunter, Suwendu Pal, Sean Slater, Neil Horowitz, Mike Meritt, Leo Caravannopoulos, and Derek Rutherford.

Model Congress

The Model Congress Committee, open to all students, has the general purpose and intent of attending Model Congresses at other schools and may host a Winchester High School Model Congress. Its photographed members include Jim Whitehead, Jay Gosselin, (Advisor) Ms. Martin, Nick Haber and Michael McKnight.

Selling for 50 cents, this year's first volume of Labyrinth is being sold by Creative Writing Club members Courtney McMillan, Lauren Murry, Neil Cullen, and Michelle Barton. (Silhouette by Kathy Maney)

Views of Civilization

The organizations within the social studies and english departments may not be many but they are exclusive. Where else could a Winchester High student learn the points of personal privileges of parlimentary procedure, how to create literary work for publication, or the intricacies of Dungeons & Dragons. The students involved with these activities carry on their aspects of civilization.

Sophomores Jason Boone and Michael Hall try a new technique on the English Writing Lab computer.

Group members Ahn Nguyen and Joe Griffoni of the band Armageddon perform their final song "Eighteen" at the Fall Music Fest.

Johann Guttenburg . . . isn't that the head of the history department? The courses offered within this section of the high school teach students everything from the details of World War I, the future affects of the technological trends or the inventor of the printing press (which by the way is, Johann Guuttenburg). Students not only learn about the history of the United States but of ancient Greece and the Byzantine Empire, of their relationships to each other and the effects on the modern world. Although AEGI and AEGII are required for all sophomores, juniors, freshmen and seniors have the opportunity to take such electives as Ancient History, Psychology, Humanities, Microeconomics and Issues of the 80's.

Our unique Model Congress program, provided during the sophomore year, gives students excellent exposure to the working government. During this workshop students write their own bills, which are later debated, using actual governmental procedures.

Getting Your Piece of the π

Mary is 24. She is twice as old as Ann was when Mary was as old as Ann is now. How old is Ann? Remember this problem? It was on that test, the last one of the third quarter. The one which you had to pass to go out that weekend. Now, do you remember asking yourself how knowing Ann's age was going to help you in life?

Math, in any form, trains us to think logically and is an irreplaceable base for every high school student. For some students this is an area in which they excel and are challenged by endless new concepts. Our math department offers a range of courses from Basic Math to A.P. Calculus. This variety includes an active Computer Science program offered to juniors and seniors. Whether you have spent your year struggling through equations, formulas, graphs, or syntax errors, the knowledge you have gained will be forever useful.

In today's world, math is more important than ever before because so much of our society is based on technology. Without a firm foundation in math, many career opportunities would be limited, so get your piece of the pie!

The Massachusetts Association of Mathematic Leagues Competition is an annual statewide competition. This year on Tuesday, October 30th, students gathered in the science lecture hall to participate in the event. Although the results have not yet been officially posted, it is known that Winchester High School Senior, Bjorn Poonen has placed first for the second year in a row. (Photo by W.H.S. Photo Club)

Formulating Theories

The activities offered in the math and science departments are designed to expand the interests of students who enjoy these fields. These options cover a spectrum of areas from the organized clubs; Math Club, Science Club, and Computer Club to the national exams which test our abilities. The "enlightening" double lab periods most of us have experienced are included within this scope of activity. How involved an individual becomes is his own choice, but if the interest is prevalent, so is the corresponding organization.

Mr. Joyce's fourth period A.P. Calculus course is traditionally a Senior class. Diane Yamane, the only Junior in her class, is an exception to this rule.

What kind of bonds are formed when electrons are shared between two atoms? a) Covalent b) Ionic c) Hydrogen d) James sound familiar? This is only one of the many abstract questions asked by our nutty, yet stimulating and informative science teachers.

The science department, like most other WHS departments has various levels of difficulty to accomodate each student's needs. The Honors and College sequences, as well as Advanced Placement courses are offered in accordance to the learner's ability and interest. Scientifically ambitious students who have stomached the frog dissection lab and endured a year of watching unknown substances bubbling away from the heat of a bunsen burner are fitted to become a part of our physics department. Mr. Finnigan, science department head, has been a major 'force' in the evolution of our physics section, currently ranked as one of the top ten in the country! Biology is certainly not boring. Chemistry is definitely challenging, and Physics is most undeniably 'phun' when experienced as a Winchester High student.

In addition to the talented teachers at WHS, there is a group of faculty that provide us with the essential extras that make life easier and more enjoyable. The Library gives students access to countless books, magazines, and reference materials, ranging from the very old to the very latest. Across the hall, we find the Audio-Visual department, which provides us with films and records to brighten up dreary Biology and Social Studies classes. When you see Macbeth in English or any other movie on videocassette, David Frary is the man behind the scenes. Mrs. Carlyjane Watson plays an essential role as Advisor to both the Photo Club and the Aberjona Staff. Her perpetual dedication and organization will always be appreciated. Last but not least, the lunch ladies and janitors pride a clear, productive cafeteria when you feel you can't function without a donut — or two. Without these people, our faculty would be incomplete.

Classes of '86, '87 and '88

We've all been one. At one point in our lives each one of us has held the title of underclassman. At Winchester High this includes receiving directions to the non-existent fourth floor pool, or buying the legendary elevator passes. This stage of innocence soon came to pass. The underclassmen outgrew their youth and added their support to athletic and academic organizations. Respect for these underclassmen became most prevalent in 1985, as all classes joined together to form the Winchester High School student body!

The Next In Line

Mick Jagger's 'look alike'; Tara Gurry (Photos by Burlington Studios)

The class of '86 began their junior year in style. Aside from the many academic expectations, we partied a great deal.

We earned money for our funds by washing cars and by selling sweatshirts, shorts and key rings. We also offered class events such as a Boston College football game to help raise extra money.

Some of us won spots on varsity teams, while others gained new inspirations about clubs, and received most of our satisfaction through academic acceleration.

It was a year of driver's licenses, PSATs, SATs and fun-filled events. There was our semi in January, our ski trip in February, our prom in March and a beach trip in the spring to bring the year to a close. Among these events, the prom at the Montvale Plaza was the most memorable.

The class of '86 looks eagerly forward to an exciting final year at W.H.S. The year that we will finally become seniors. If this past year has been any indication of how our senior year will be, then next year is sure to be supreme.

Do Drugs?

"Hey, do you do drugs and alcohol?"
"Every Wednesday night at seven."
"With who?"
"Mr. Walsh, Miss Sullivan, Mr. Benton
"Teachers!"

If you took Drug and Alcohol, you would know what this student was talking about. This program is designed to teach Juniors and Seniors about the effects of drugs and alcohol, so they in turn can educate sixth, eighth, and tenth graders.

They work very hard and give up much of their spare time to help younger students through 24 weeks of two-and-a-half hour classes. In these classes they learn and are tested about the effects of using drugs and alcohol. But Drug and Alcohol is not all grueling hard work. Students learn and have fun being with each other at the same time. They get to see their friends outside of school and catch up on the week's gossip. They also get to listen to entertaining guest speakers. At Drug and Alcohol, students are challenged with philosophical questions which enrich their minds.

Jenny Tinkler demonstrates her knowledge about drugs and alcohol.

Tricia Bracken and Chip Kelly guide sophmores down the "yellow brick road".

Kathy Maney relates her wisdom of drugs and alcohol as she peer-teaches a social studies class.

The time has finally arrived, you go to your first after school driver's ed class in the cafeteria. Your instructor begins his lecture, and everyone excitedly listens to what he has to say. There are even a few diligent people who take notes, but after the first fifteen minutes most of the kids have decided that they've blown 104.00 dollars. After memorizing that little blue book, we go to answer those ten multiple choice questions. Finally we begin our actual driving lessons. That first time behind the wheel in Mike's maroon car. "Completely stop at the stop sign", "close to the parallel lines" are some of Mike's famous lines. After six hours of road experience, we are finally ready for that big moment; our test. You're waiting your turn also hoping the registrar is in a good mood, and then all too soon you are driving down the street. You practically break the registrar's neck as you stop the car too suddenly. Washington Street is the busiest it has ever been, but before you know it, he's handing you the little pink slip that you've dreamed of having. It's party time!

SAT's

What would junior year be like without SAT's? Ecstasy!

The day of SAT's is one of those days when everything seems to go wrong. It's as sure as the sky is blue that you'll wake up late on the morning of your SAT's. With uncombed hair, and socks that don't match, you arrive at the testing center. Once the test begins, it sounds as if everyone in the room has a cold of some sort, and you can barely hear yourself think because the cough of the girl behind you sounds somewhat like a B-52 warming up. You overcome these obstacles, and finish the test. As you walk out of the room, you hear Barry Brain and Sally Smarty discussing how easy the test was, and you wonder if they took the same one you did. Well, you think to yourself, so what if I blew my SAT's? There are people starving in Ethiopia and I'm worrying about a mere test? This makes you feel a little better, but you know that it won't be long before you get your test results back, and wish that you were the lucky one in Ethiopia!!

Junior Bop

"No one's going!!!"

"Ticket sales are so bad!"

Well to everyone's surprise, the Junior Semi Formal, held on January 14th, was quite a bash! At the last minute, swarms of people entered the K of C Hall and the dance floor started 'hoppin to the tunes of "D.J. For The Night". Many people bopped and dropped to "Rock Lobster" ... down, down, down. Animal House was recreated with "Shout" echoing throughout the room. New romances were strengthened, old flames were rekindled, and of course there were those who floated from person to person. Public display of affection ran rampant throughout the mass of loving couples. Chorus lines formed, linking everyone as "New York, New York" was voiced by a select group of Juniors girls. Everyone was on their best behavior as no disciplinary problems were reported. With no rumor of a party after the event, the couples vanished into the freezing winter night.

Matt Bezjian and Beth O'Donnell retire at their table after a long dance.

Shaun Herlihy and Linda McCall gaze passionately into each other's eyes as "Always and Forever" plays in the background.

In Limbo

They are not at the bottom of the ocean but they still don't have their heads above the water. They are not totally sick of high school yet, and happily they troop to school every morning. Playfully they walk through the halls, and the studying load has not overwhelmed them yet. Being the middlemen, they have nothing to worry about.

Carefree and energetic the sophomores do much to contribute to the school and to their fellow classmates. The sophomores have outletted their energy into many activities of the school.

At the Open House they had a delicious assortment for the Bake Sale, which enticed customers with the aroma.

For a money raiser they sold the very popular black sweatpants. These sweats sold very well, and the fund raiser was a great success.

One of the best events for the sophomores was their ski trip. The sophomores skied down the slopes with all their energy. As well as on the slopes of the mountain, the sophomores also enjoyed a fun-filled weekend on the beach at Hyannis. Cheering louder than any of the other fans, they also went to a night Red Sox game.

Our middlemen were very upset when they were told they had to have their dance with the beings at the bottom of the ocean, the freshmen. The sophomores are above the freshmen and were very upset and indignant at the idea of having a dance with the freshmen.

No matter what they do the sophomores do it with pizzazz and with energy. This school would not be what it is today and it would be boring if we did not have the members of the tenth grade.

Original Espressions

Winchester High School does indeed have its share of talent — and the WHS Art Department is no exception. The past four years have brought Mr. Tracey and Mr. Walker (the Art Department 'Big Wigs') a number of autistically talented students.

In 1983, Cris DeLuca (then a sophomore), was awarded with a gold medal in a national art contest. This was a fantastic accomplishment with the odds of winning being 20,000 to 1. Peter Kyn has also been awarded for his artistic talent by winning four blue ribbons in the Golden Show.

Two other seniors — Trisha Lynch and Marco Sartori, were accepted to participate in a ten week program at Phillip's Andover Academy. This provided them with vigorous art training in photographic art and other areas. They have all contributed to the Sachem Spirit.

Hair today, gone tomorrow

In the past, the hairstyles at Winchester High School have remained, for the most part, fairly conservative. However, in the 84-85 school year, the punks have come out of the closet. Everywhere you look, bleached, shaven, and spiked hairstyles can be seen. Where before, the occasional "tail" was thought to be risqué, now a shaved head with a few long bleached strands at the front is not entirely out of the ordinary. While some of the parents and faculty may not approve of the wild new styles, it is a good sign that the students of WHS surely feel free to demonstrate their individuality.

The Butting Green

This year, when students returned to the High School they found that the courtyard had been renovated. Gone were the balding grass and stumpy trees; (which had been hacked to bits a few years back by discontented seniors), and in their places were new evergreens and astro-turf. Benches were provided for those who didn't want to sit on the plush grass. All in all, the courtyard was transformed from a grungy hangout to a miniature golf course.

Not only did the appearance of the courtyard change, but so did the types of people that collected there. No longer was the courtyard dominated by the "rats". Everyone felt free to relax in the courtyard, either to catch up on some homework, or just relax with friends. At any given time, people representing almost every clique in the High School could be seen in the courtyard.

Students flock to the courtyard for an "astro-turf butt break". Relaxing with a cigarette is a common activity in the courtyard, as well as outside the art room doors. It's safe to say that the cigarettes smoked in the courtyard are different from those smoked by the art room doors, however. The students of Winchester High School are certainly lucky to have a place where they can rap, smoke, and in the case of couples, "mug it up". Let's just hope that they will stay looking as nice as it does.

The New Addition

Entering Winchester High School was an experience that no freshman will ever forget. Everyone had their own expectations of high school life. Adapting to a different environment from McCall Jr. High made many of us nervous. As the year progressed, so did the class of 1988. Each and every student built their own road for four years of learning.

In January our first and very successful dance was held. It was joined by the sophomore class. A beach party was also planned as well as an exciting semi-formal at the end of the year. All in all our first year at Winchester High seemed to be very successful. With a lot of help from the upperclassmen we have completed our first year without major problems. We, the class of 1988, will stay together for four years, but in our minds, our "good times" will last forever.

A Freshman Tradition

One of the first and most memorable of our high school experiences is our Honors English Class during Freshmen year with Barbara Norton. Miss Norton does not teach just English literature; she opens a student's mind to poetry, music, various cultures and even topics like nuclear war. Students do not just read, but also debate, discuss, write, listen and learn. Because Miss Norton brings all of these and other areas into her course, it is interesting for the students.

The students began the year by giving her their first impressions of the school. From there, students are presented with various creative assignments, such as acting out plays or debating current issues.

Miss Norton greatly influences her students. Many of her students have kept in touch and come back to see her. (If you really want to get on her good side, bring her some chocolate.)

In addition to her broad literary background, Miss Norton has a reputation as one of the best hall monitors in the school. "Killer Norton", as she is called in the English department, has no qualms about breaking up hallway brawls.

These are photos of this year's Freshmen Honors English class, the fortunate reciprocants of Miss Norton's endless experience and enthusiasm.

The Lunch Bunch

Lunch at Winchester High is a new experience for the freshmen. The WHS cafeteria is quite different from that of the Junior High. Not only is there a larger selection of food at the High School, but there is also plenty of good music for everyone to enjoy. In addition, lunchtime gives the freshmen a chance to mingle with and admire the upperclassmen.

Serfs Speak Up

When the freshmen first arrived at the high school this year we asked them how they felt about the upperclassmen and this is what they had to say ...

"They're there" — Scott Murphy

"They're nicer than I expected"
— Rob Kean

"They're tall, some of them even have beards!"
— Ken Barclay

"They're pretty nice but they think they own the school ..."

Aren't freshmen amusing? Whether clumped around the bathroom mirrors, or dodging in the hallways, all freshmen remind us of our past. Here's how former freshmen view the class of '88.

"They're great because they look up to us and give us alot of respect" — Maryanne Fallon

"They get littler every year" — Rob Santos

Competition

Sachems strive for athletic superiority. From the superbowl bound Sachem Gridders, to the ballbusting power of our Sachem soccer teams, we reign supreme in the Middlesex League. The hours of sweat and dedication reinforce the Sachem motto, "No Pain, No Gain". The endless devotion of the coaches and trainer of the Sachem athletes, is the backbone of our triumphs. The competitive spirit of WHS, brings us yet another step above the rest.

Against All Odds

With very little experience and a lot of hard work, the Winchester High School Boys Cross Country Team had an extremely successful season. They finished with a record of 7-2 and ended up in a respectable tie for second place in the highly competitive Middlesex League.

Although the team was without a runner with more than one season of previous cross country experience, the coaches, Mr. Cantillon and Mr. Maloney, felt Winchester could do well. And the team did more than do well, they did terrific.

The team made up for their inexperience with depth. Under the leadership of Co-captains Brian Pothier and Jim Whitehead, the team stuck together and aspired. Finishing the season with an unforgettable one-point victory over Woburn.

The agonizing struggle pays off as Beth Nowell edges out her opponent

The Girls Cross-country team was not as successful in the 1984 season as it has been in past years. However, many individuals on the team performed outstandingly, and some even achieved personal bests. Unfortunately, many runners were plagued by injury, and this showed in the team's final record. However, Coach Cantillon remains optimistic about future seasons. Although the team is losing two of its best runners, co-captains Beth Nowell and Diane Aronson, to graduation, Mr. Cantillon feels that there remains the base for a strong and competitive team. Some of the returning runners will be juniors Heather Innes and Betsy Ellis, and sophomores Sandra Riley, Lauren Chabot, Kristen Pywell, Cindy Whitehead, and Anne Walsh. All of these runners are looking forward to next season, and are hoping that their record will be as good as the times that they share.

The 1984 Sachem football team finished a great season with a 9-1-0 record; the best record since 1971. The Sachems breezed through the first eight weeks of the season undefeated, but in the ninth week they faced Lexington, who was also undefeated. The winner would play for the state championship. The score was 14-0 at halftime, and the Sachems never made up this lead resulting in a score of 14-8, Lexington's win. The Sachems finished the season on a high note as they crushed Woburn.

Carroll was the team's leading scorer and was named All-Scholastic by the Boston Herald. Doherty, a guard on what was considered the best offensive line in the state, was named in the Boston Globe All Scholastic Team.

Leaders of the pack, Coaches D. Berman, M. Mixer, T. Donahue, and M. Marshall, and Captains B. Carroll, D. Doherty, smile for the camera.

Middlesex Champions

Once more in '84! The 1984 Girls Soccer Team finished the season 16-1-0. They were Middlesex league champions for the seventh consecutive year, so they went on into the tournament. Although they easily beat Burlington, 10-2, they were defeated by Needham, 2-1, in the second round.

The team will always remember these few lines from a poem: "This is your first game, son. I hope you win for your sake, not mine. It's a good feeling. There's no telling whether they'll toss you out in the first five minutes or whether you'll stay for the long haul. Too much depends on chance. On how the ball bounces."

Soccer is a sport that requires skill. To appreciate it, you have to participate as either a player or a fan. The teamwork and devotion to the love of the game itself was what drove the Sachem boys to victory this season. Hours of long hard practice was also what the team was made of. The "Ballbusters" were a team of spirit and pride. It's a shame that the ball couldn't have been placed in the net. The Sachems tried hard, but the offense couldn't start their engines. The Sachems had a very rewarding season with a virtually flawless record. The many memories of Soccer at Winchester High will always remain in the hearts of those who play the sport itself.

Slam Dunk!

What a difference a year makes. The Sachems finished their 1983-84 season with a dismal 4-16 record, but this year, under coaches Dave Smith and Bob Gleason, the veteran Sachem "Hoopsters" have made a name for themselves in the Middlesex League. Teams that had previously rolled-over the Sachems with ease, were now being paid back by the obviously sharper and more experienced 85' team.

Led by senior captain Alan Adler, the team was comprised of seniors, Jake Lewin, juniors; Hank Lynch, Pete Mulvaney, David DellaGrotte, Mike White, Dennis Clark, John Bruno, John Serieka, Steven "Spud" Murray, and Scott Olivieri (wait a second — weren't there more?) and sophomores; Jim Kavanaugh, Mark Shaw, and Chris Verhaegen.

Several questions arose this season:

"Where's the Boo?"

"Why Bango? (How are you, mad Al?)"

"Who has the balls?"

"Which one of you guys owes me the Belly-Buster?"

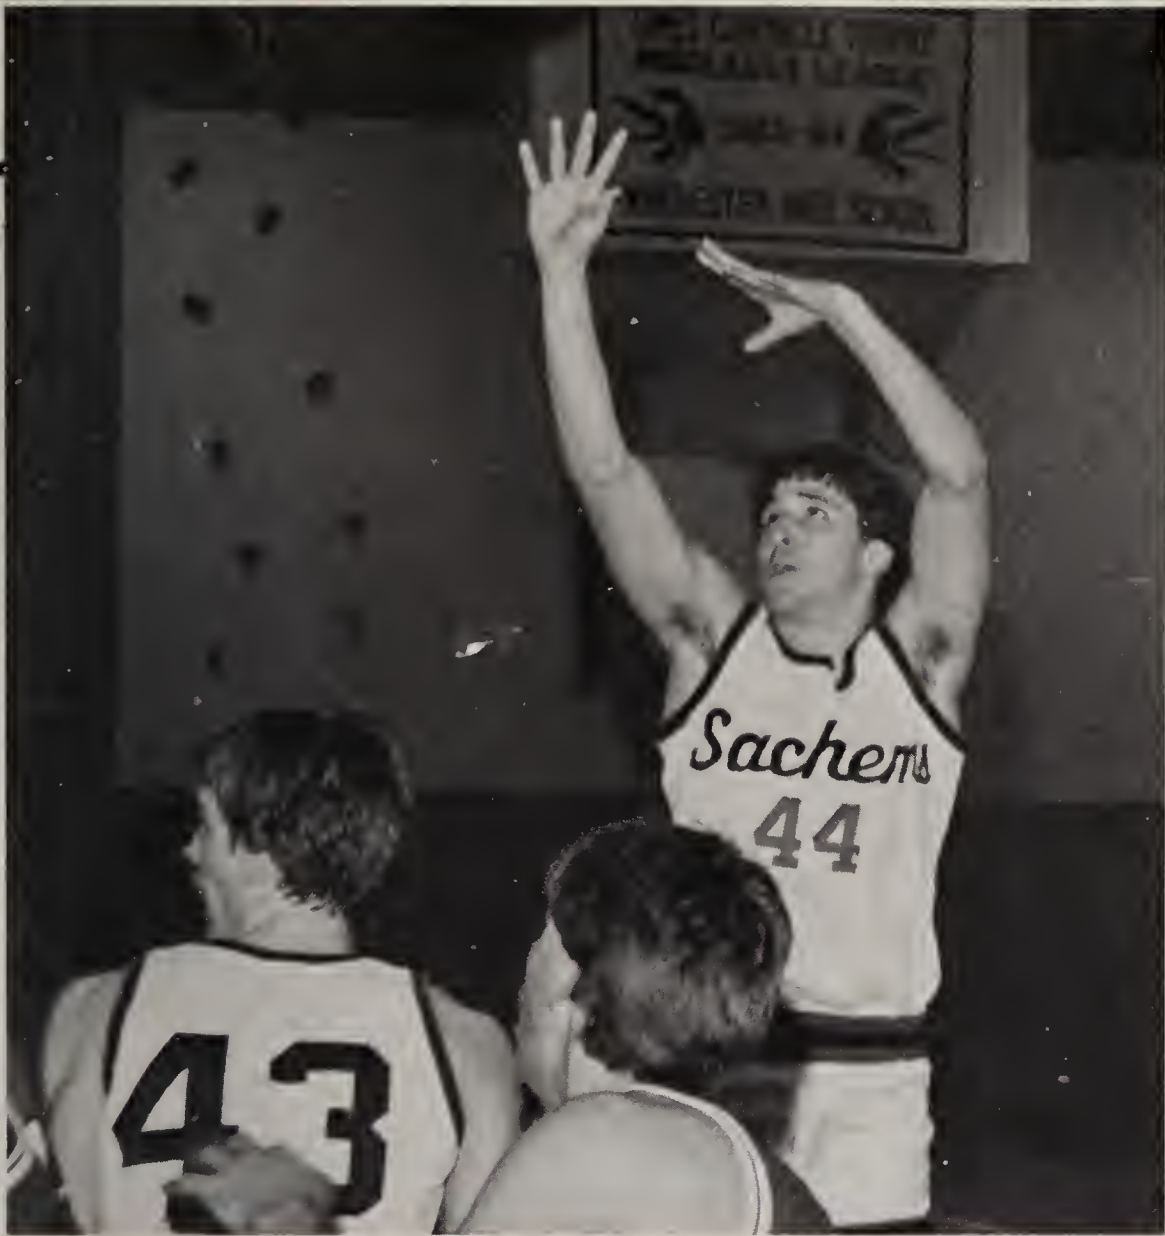

"Hey, anyone for Wheelies?"

The Sachems are looking forward to another great season next year as only two seniors are to graduate, and many of the potential starters will already have two years of varsity experience to their credit.

David Dellograte, Steven Murray, Alan Adler, Mike White, Jimmy Cavanaugh, Scott Olivieri, John Bruno, Hank Lynch, Peter Mulvaney, Timmy Budrewicz, Jacob Lewin, and Mark Shaw.

These guys obviously take themselves pretty seriously!

Hey Peter Mulvani, get a grip!

Hank Lynch cries, "It's mine, you can't have it!"

There ain't no stoppin' Steven Murray.

Shooting Up?

The girls Basketball team had another winning season, and improved their record to such an extent as to qualify for the state tournament. Led by captains Ellen Clavin and Barbara Delaney, they finished with a 14-6 record. The tourney-bound team has worked hard, but also had its share of good times, including numerous Basketball dinners, and outings to toilet-paper the coach's house. Surprisingly enough, the team even managed to make it to early-morning practices on Saturdays without complaining. Good luck to the graduating seniors, and to next year's team, who hopefully will be tourney-bound as well.

Bill Driscoll, Nelleke Spanjard, Cathy Flatly, Maureen Dokus, Maryellen Feeny, Paula Russo, Ann Walsh, Joseph DiSarcina, Theresa Ducharme, Julie Gaarnotta, Ellen Clavin, Barbara Delaney, Ellen Donahoe, Carey Macdonald.

Mitch Powers prays for the extra point as she focuses her attention on the game.

Although the Field Hockey team's losses exceeded their wins, the team lacked neither ability nor enthusiasm. The season started off with a bang by winning the first two games. Spirits were high and Captains Elizabeth Doherty and Sharon Fitzgerald tried to keep them up for the remaining portion of the season.

The sachusettes had a new head coach this year, Mrs. Brown. She did a great job developing potential ability and creating new strategies. Laura Ball returned as the assistant coach. She did a great job keeping the players laughing.

TEE PARTY

The Winchester High School 1984 season was more than just a tee-party. In fact, it was a season that will not be soon fore-gotten! For the first time in golf team history, the team was able to hold their practices at the Winchester Country Club, thanks to a generous Club member. (No more "putt-ing" up with the High School playing field!)

Certain individuals on the team had an outstanding season. John Colantino competed in the Eastern Mass. Tournament, Shawn Bonner in the State Tourney, and Tom Outwater at the Schoolboy Tournament. Coach Dave Miller hopes that next season will be more successful. The players have a few aspirations; playing at the Bing Crosby Memorial Tournament, female caddies for each player, and cheerleaders at every match!

The 1984-85 season for the Winchester High School Girls Gymnastics team was an exceptional one. A new zest was added to the team with the arrival of a new coach, Michelle Santagate. Captains Pam "Getty" Getson and Lisa "jelly-bean" Reinfeld helped pull the team through the season with their dedication and enthusiasm as team helped make it worth remembering. leaders. Early in the season the team was plagued with injuries. But the loyalty and hard work of the team virtually overcame every obstacle.

Funny times such as Michelle receiving flowers from the track coach, (Katie?), swinging on the rings in Wakefield, and Sue's "10" bar routine in Saugus followed the team throughout the season and helped make it worth remembering.

ICEMEN!

The boys hockey team showed much improvement this year. Coach Mike Whyte was very happy with the performance of the team as a whole. The players worked well together and responded to the coach. This was a very important part of the team. The team was led by six seniors: Bob Paine, John Surabian, Scott Binding, Tim Donaghey, Rob Collins, and Paul Ferullo. Many underclassman also performed well this year and will be a very important factor in the years to come. On behalf of the team, we would like to thank our coaches, the cheerleaders, and also the fans. "KEEP THE FAITH".

This year's wrestling team had strong support from the class of 85. Over the three year period the team has earned a record of 43-5, with twenty-eight wins in a row.

The teams success in largely due to the outstanding dedication and sacrifice by Coach Tremblay and Coach Neill. For four years Coach Tremblay has worked long and hard to make one team stronger, quicker, and more powerful. Coach Neill organizes the team, and bonds them together to form one. They are more than just coaches to the team, they are friends.

The whole team will always remember: the three pound dump, Rockland Cheerleaders, 50 yard line B.C. Hideaway, Fribbles and Dandies, "Hold the nuts and heavy on the breast.", Katsup, Skidrow, Fear-some Foursome, "I can't see", "Open your eyes", who are Neal and Pat?, Lowe at 128, JoJo at 169, Charlie at 187, Preparation H, Blackeyed Peas, Osmo-sis, Cresse Cradle, The Moose, Puchulu who?, Rice who?, and Big Bad Bald Ballers Bernie Barger.

This years undefeated varsity team was made up of 100 Fog, 107 Bagel, 114 Borty or Moondog Rex, 121 Puch, 128 Minute, 134 Grubslly or Buckles, 140 Beata, 147 Jolly Joe, 157 Tigga, 169 Dancin Domba, 187 Biannual Bruce and Hut Baby Hewy.

Due to a new coach (Roy Coates) and a new practice time (2:30 in the afternoon rather than — ugh — 4:00 in the morning), the boys' Swim Team has had yet another successful year. Their record was almost perfect: six wins and two losses (to Lincoln-Sudbury and Lexington; but don't worry, they "kicked Lexington's butts" at the end of the season). This awesome record made them Middlesex League Meet Champions. Not only that, but an unusually high number of team members (eight, to be exact) are going to the Northeast Sectionals.

The Aberjona had a special request to mention some of the Swim Team's favorite private jokes: "Gentlemen, in by this sixty; What a Guy . . . splat; Twat; Lamborghinie; Nifty; Z; Tang; Bent Head; 1, 2, 3, Go Sachems . . . simply marvelous."

Guy Pollino is in perfect form preparing for a perfect dive.

Running with the Night

The season record for the girls track team fails to reveal the hard training and excellent performances executed by them. Despite the losses, the team continued to turn out strong performances and several personal bests were achieved. Winchester sent runners to the State Coaches meet as well as the State class meet where many impressive times were set.

Although the team consisted of only a few seniors, they will be sorely missed. The underclassmen were also very strong and added great depth to the team as a whole.

The fine performances of the team were fantastic. The girls track team looks forward to next year with anticipation for the future!!!

At the beginning of the season, this years boys winter track team had many new things to look forward to. A new team, a new attitude and most importantly a new coach. Marathoner Steve Norton brought the team together and created a new feeling of pride and determination within the team.

Although the team had few outstanding and dominating athletes, the many returning upperclassmen gave Winchester a better record than expected.

Their 6-3 record in the competitive Middlesex League showed that the hours of running countless 300's on the ugly green oval and endless miles in the cold and snow did pay off.

A black and white photograph of a person in silhouette, standing on a path and holding a large, dark rectangular sign above their head with both hands. The sign has the word "Community" written on it in a white, serif font. The person is wearing a long coat and boots. In the background, there is a body of water, possibly a pond or a slow-moving river, with trees and foliage reflected in it. The overall mood is serene and contemplative.

Community

Who says you can't judge a book by its cover? Our newly renovated town reflects the self image of Winchester's citizens. Far and near, we are reputed as being an affluent and professional community.

Our success can be attributed to our proximity to Boston, the active communal organizations, and the tightly woven social structure of the inhabitants. The community is the backbone of every individual endeavor, making our firm foundation a first step in excelling above the rest.

The 1985 Aberjona began in the spring of '84. Juniors from the '84 book were all tested to determine their skills. These tests plus the adviser's evaluation of each member's commitment to the '84 book determined leadership roles for the 1985 Aberjona.

Alison Hagge, Pam Harrington and Michelle Kupjian went off to Gettysburg, Pa. during their summer vacation to increase their knowledge of the world of publishing. They returned in the fall to Aberjona meetings with great vitality. Working together like the Three Musketeers, they selected a theme and planned the pagination, and then each designed the pages of the sections over which she would have autonomy.

Aberjona 1985 had begun in earnest. From the ranks of over forty students twenty would emerge who would work, eat and sleep yearbook for the next six months.

During these six months the A-Team not only spent their lives working at yearbook but also having fun at yearbook. They munched out at Papa G's and they learned "how to raise their own livestock".

And although they "love ya, Puch", one man was not enough to make them happy! They majored in regional politics and the corruption of young minds. Their unlimited knowledge of medicine was exemplified by their wonderful get-well prescription of orange M & M's for Carlyjane (Mrs. Watson, that is).

Their — Bank and Trust Credit Card helped foot the bill for their favorite pastime — eating — and old faithful Nellie helped them get around. "Betsy get out of the car ... Eject!"

Yearbook taught them a great deal about life, including fifty things you can do with an improper cropper.

Good luck 'Happy Cookies!

They'll never forget all of those good times because ...

"WE LOVE yearbook!!!"

... and yearbook and CDW loves them.

Yearbook '85 began with a birthday party for Michelle Kupjian and Alison Hagge. The junk food never stopped.

Nelleke Spanjaard adopted the "Save the Lady" Campaign with enthusiasm.

With the ease and humor we came to depend on her for, Betsy Ellis prepares copy for Suzanne Perlitsh.

The staff provided moral support for Mrs. Watson in the form of a giant three foot card during her hospital stay.

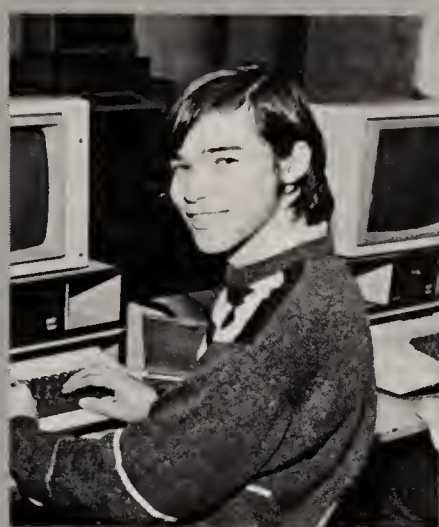

Alison Hagge prepares for another production date with an "improper" cropper.

With only one week to the final deadline the staff still managed to smile.

Michelle Kupjian and Lauren Pawlak review type specs for senior copy.

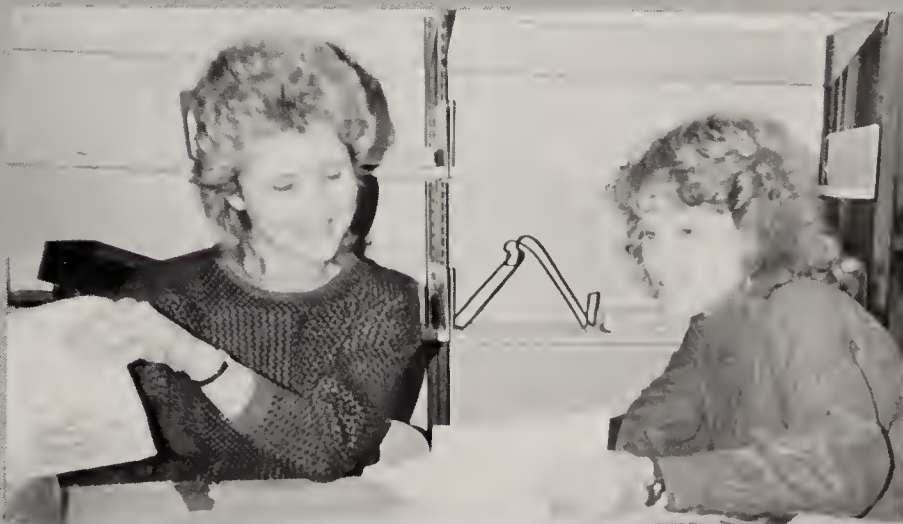

Mrs. Watson has a look at the photos Missy Vultaggio selected for track.

Smiling through it all, Ginny Askew finalizes feature layouts.

Cory Barger, not to be out done by Ginny pitches in on the last pages.

Roxanne Hansen and Cindy Card were among the handful of seniors who hung in for the entire Aberjona year, they were wonderful.

Volume 56 of the Aberjona of Winchester High School, Winchester, Massachusetts, was printed by the Herff Jones Yearbook Co. It had a press run of 450 copies, 224 pages each, printed on 80lb. Ermine. The front and back endsheets were school designed and printed in black. The book's trim size was 7¼ x 10½. The quarterbound cover had a base material of black vibratex and overlay silver vibratex. The school seal and type were applied with black and silver. The cover type is Tiffany Heavy. All copy is Garamond Bold with dropped initials on the divider pages.

The Sachem Logo was designed by Winchester student Simon J. Donovan, Jr., Class of '77. The silhouettes as they appear on the end sheets are by the following students: the Sachem Squaw by Tricia Lynch, the Cheerleader by Lisa Reinfeld, the Senior by Marco Sartori, the Academic Student by Tricia Lynch, the Underclassman by Ivan Latanision, the Football Captain by Petr Kyn, the Fireman by Petr Kyn and the Graduate and Mr. Larocco by Lisa Reinfeld. The endsheets were produced by Chris DeLuca. The photograph on page one of Winchester High School is by Carlyjane Watson.

The 1984 Aberjona was awarded a second place by the judging committees of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

The editors and staff of the 1985 Aberjona would like to express their appreciation and thanks to the student body, faculty and staff of Winchester High School. We would also like to express special thanks to John Carrier of Herff Jones Yearbook Co., to Larry Smith of the Physics Department, to Helen Nagle of the Business Department and to Michael Puchulu for his special contribution to the '85 Aberjona. Finally, we thank the Citizens and Businesses of Winchester for their support and example which is a step above the rest.
